BODY OF DEAD WOMAN DUG UP AND SENT TO BOSTON FOR EXAMINATION.

SEEK MORE WITNESSES

Police Still Insist They Have Clear Evidence That Suspected Min.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—Representatives from the district attorney's office and police headquarters will leave this afternoon for Hyannis, Mass., to examine the body of Miss Linnell, who was murdered by her husband, Charles V. Richeson, of the Hyannis Baptist church, Cambridge, is held.

Seek Police View.
The authorities will take from the coffin the hat and shoes worn by the girl when she died with an effort to ascertain if the pockets contained the vital of poison that killed her.

An Autopsy.
An autopsy will be performed and the stomach of the girl, with other organs taken out to be sent to the laboratory at Harvard university. There an examination will be made to determine just what drug Miss Linnell took and if it was cyanide of potassium.

Guilt or Innocence.
Today's developments are expected to establish points of Dr. Richeson's guilt or innocence or the chance that he gave Miss Linnell poison after wronging her as well as to put her out of the way, enabling him to marry Miss Violet Gammon, an heiress.

Body Exhumed.
The body of Miss Linnell was exhumed at Hyannis this afternoon, the coffin was sent back to Boston without being opened.

No Suicide Planned.
That Miss Linnell made an appointment for the Sunday following her death and had every intention of keeping it.

Reasonable Doubt.
This, they say, puts aside the theory that she took the poison with suicidal intent. It was learned on authority today that the defense will be based on the ground of reasonable doubt.

Son Innocent.
Amherst, Mass., Oct. 24.—"I know my son is innocent. I shall defend him in every way within my power. But, if he should be proved guilty, which is impossible, I would rather he died than face the world as his father."

Gives Statement.
This was the statement of gray-haired Colonel T. V. Richeson, aged 65, father of C. V. T. Richeson, held in Boston charged with the murder of Miss Linnell. The older Richeson lives near here on his farm which comprises hundreds of acres of mountain land.

Will Aid.
"When the time comes, I will go to Boston and be by my boy's side. I am not rich, but I can give him financial aid."

"Some terrible mistake has been made. Clarence was not the kind. He was a good, hard working boy. It is absurd to think that a young man who worked so hard for his education, would be guilty of such a horrible crime."

Clean Record.
"His record is clean and he will be proved innocent. He is the last person in the world who would do such a thing."

DEATHS IN ATTACK ON BENHAZI PLACED AT FOUR THOUSAND

Bombardment of Benhazi Was Most Bloody in Report—English Consul Wounded Rouses British Ire.

Vienna, Austria, Oct. 24.—Delayed messages arriving here today from Tripoli leave no doubt that the bombardment of Benhazi by the Italian fleet Oct. 19th will be a far bloodier affair than the censorship has hitherto allowed the outside world to know.

Four thousand casualties resulted from the battleships' fire. It is now said, among which were a large number killed, British Consul John Francis Jones was wounded and the British consulate nearly destroyed. It is expected the British government will call Italy to account as soon as it receives fuller details.

The Turks are said to have put up a stiff fight and lost heavily.

Letters Received.

Wood, a private detective of Milwaukee.

Wood said that Regan told him the story in the office of Frank Southern, a Milwaukee contractor. According to Wood Regan said Shields declared he came from Washington with "carte blanche" orders from Stephenson to draw any amount needed to get democrats to stay out of the legislative assembly.

NATIVES OF ARIZONA VOTE FOR GOVERNOR FOR THE FIRST TIME

Many Men Who Have Grown Old in Commonwealth Will Have First Opportunity to Cast Ballot For State Officers.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 24.—Men who have lived from youth to old age in Arizona, some of them having resided in the territory for nearly half a century, went to the polls today and for the first time in their lives expressed by ballot their choice for governor and other executive, judicial and legislative officials. The occasion was the general primaries for the nomination of candidates to be voted for at the first state election in Arizona, which is to be held in December. New Mexico, which was admitted to statehood at the same time as Arizona, held to the convention plan of nominations, but Arizona adopted the direct primary system and put it into operation for the first time today. Owing to the large expanse of territory covered by the new state and the remote locations of many of the communities the results of the primary elections may not be definitely known until late tomorrow.

A heavy vote reported in Phoenix and in other of the chief cities gives evidence of the keen interest the people of the new state are taking in their first effort at self-government. The citizens of Arizona have always elected their own county officers and their legislators, but the president has named the governor and other executive officials, including the judiciary, and congress has always had veto power over the territorial legislative enactments.

Now for the first time they are to exercise the power of all other sovereign states, and on December 12, next, will choose at their own election, from governor to constable, and including representatives in congress and a legislature that will choose two United States senators. Heretofore Arizona has been allowed one "delegate" in the house of representatives, but this delegate had no vote. He occupied a seat and was permitted to make speeches and serve on committees, but had no voice in legislative matters so far as voting was concerned. Now the new state is to send a full fledged member to the house and two members to the senate.

In today's primaries nominations were made for governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, attorney-general, superintendent of public instruction, corporation commissioner, United States senator and representative and three judges of the state supreme court. The ballots contained complete tickets representing the republican, democratic and socialist parties.

The republican candidates for the nomination for governor are E. W. Wolfe of Prescott and George H. Young of Phoenix. Three democrats aspire to the governorship. They are Dr. H. A. Hughes of Phoenix, George W. P. Hunt of Globe and T. E. Weed of Florence. A. W. Gaudin of Globe has been unanimously judged by the socialist party for governor.

The contests for the two United States senatorships are regarded by the people as of even more interest and importance than the fight for the governorship. If the republicans win in the first state election the two United States senators will be Ralph Cameron of Flagstaff and Royal A. Smith of Bisbee. Cameron has been in congress for several years as the territorial delegate from Arizona. Smith is a prominent young mining man and has served as republican territorial chairman.

That the democrats are sanguine of controlling the first state legislature is evidenced by the fact that there are three times as many applicants for the United States senatorships on the democratic side as on the republican. The most prominent of the candidates are Col. H. L. McKitt of Tombstone, Eugene S. Ives of Tucson, attorney for the Southern Pacific railroad, and Eugene Brady O'Neill of Phoenix, brother of the famous "Huckey" O'Neill, who met death in Cuba as a captain of Rough Riders. The other democratic aspirants for the senatorships are J. H. Robertson of Phoenix, M. A. Smith of Tucson and H. E. Ashurst and R. M. Lusk of Prescott. The socialist candidates are E. D. Simonson of Globe and E. Johnston of Globe.

The republicans have united upon John S. Williams of Bisbee as their choice for representative in congress. The democratic aspirants for representative are Markford Winsor of Yuma, Lamar Cobb of Clifton and Jay Hayden of Phoenix. John Halberg of Jerome is the socialist candidate.

For each of the minor places on the state ticket, including treasurer, secretary of state, auditor and attorney-general, the democrats have two or more candidates, while the republicans and socialists have named but one each.

THIS IS WHERE THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

Parker as mechanician, and the Overland car driven by Grover Horn, with Clark Stewart of Chicago as mechanician, took place.

It was a race for blood and money and the two rival drivers used all the skill in their power to have their machines tuned up to the proper pitch for the grueling ten mile grind. The start was a standing one and the course, ten miles around the mile track. Incidentally there was a hundred dollars up as an inducement for the winning car with a bit of the gate money besides and individual bets which totaled into the hundreds by spectators.

Both cars and drivers have been in particular training for the event this afternoon ever since the Columbus day races were held when the Buick car carried off the honors. Owing to the wet weather the contest has been postponed several times and consequently today's race has added interest to contestants and drivers. The start was made at thirty-three sharp.

Both cars were going like the wind when Horn made too wide a turn out on his second lap at the west side and his car crashed into the bank. Horn was thrown ten feet from his machine but was uninjured. His car lost a wheel and put him out of the race.

This did not end the troubles as on the fifth lap Prielipp's car went into the crowd at the west turn of the north end, struck one of the spectators and threw his mechanician, Parker, out, and then crossed back into the track and hit the outside fence before righting. He then finished the race.

STATE SPECIALISTS ON HOG CHOLERA TO BE HERE SATURDAY

Demonstration of Vaccination to Prevent Hog Disease Will Be Conducted at Northwestern Stock Yards, October 28.

Specialists from the veterinary department of the state college of agriculture at Madison will conduct a demonstration on the matter of vaccination for hog cholera, at the Northwestern stock yards in this city Saturday afternoon, Oct. 28, at two o'clock.

This announcement comes following several inspection trips to farms of hog breeders in the vicinity of Janesville by the state specialists to investigate the hog cholera conditions. Owing to the amount of damage and the large number of animals which have died from the ravages of the disease on local farms within the past few weeks, it has been thought expedient to show the farmers and breeders the methods which may be employed to prevent the disease.

Doctors Hadley and Hensch will conduct the demonstration to which all the farmers in this vicinity or in the county who are interested are cordially invited. The serum vaccine method of treatment for the disease in question will be demonstrated and instructions as to the proper hygiene measures to follow in infected districts, including feeding and care, will be given.

The demonstrators will show how the serum is made and will probably treat several pigs, known to be free from the disease, with the serum and place them in a pen with diseased pigs. This will show clearly the real value of the preventive. A post mortem examination on a pig that died from cholera is planned and this will make it possible for breeders to understand more clearly the nature and course of the disease. The meeting is free and everyone interested in hog breeding is invited to attend.

PROMINENT MILTON RESIDENT IS DEAD

A. Judson Wells, For Many Years Respected Resident of Village Died Yesterday Afternoon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton, Oct. 24.—A. Judson Wells died yesterday afternoon, falling to his death from the stroke of paralysis of the day before. Mr. Wells was a veteran of the Civil War having served in the Thirty-second Wisconsin regiment, of which Col. George A. Cook of Chicago, was a member.

The deceased had been a resident of this village for many years and was highly respected as a citizen and neighbor. Since retiring from active business an affection of the heart had been gradually sapping his vitality and for some time he had been quite feeble. He was seventy-nine years of age.

Left to mourn his loss are an aged wife and four sons: Dr. W. R. Wells, of Riverside, Cal.; E. C. Wells, of Watertown, Wis.; and F. J. and W. S. Wells, of this village.

The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at the Seventh-day Baptist church.

Other Items.

Roy Bullis came back from Watertown yesterday and stood the trip well. The treatment there did not seem to benefit him and physicians said he would be as well off at home. A heavy killing frost fell here last night.

PIONEER OF COUNTY WAS CALLED MONDAY

John Peach Passed Away Yesterday at Home in Town of Porter—Was An Old Resident.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Edgerton, Oct. 24.—John Peach, an aged and highly respected citizen of Porter township, died yesterday morning after an illness of two months with cancer of the stomach. A strong man and of robust constitution he withstood the disease remarkably well, being confined to the bed only one week.

Mr. Peach was born in Brampton, Huntingdonshire, England, May 5, 1833. At that place he also was married. Coming to America with his wife in 1855 they settled in Porter township where he was engaged in farm work for some years, returning there again to his native home. He turned here again he soon bought a farm of 101 acres which he has conducted for the past thirty-seven years. On March 14, 1902, he was bereft of his wife.

Five children are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father, three sons and two daughters, being Thomas, Fred and Ernest, and Mrs. Edward Attey and Mrs. William Henderson, all of whom reside in this vicinity. John Peach, also a farmer, residing nearby, is the only surviving brother.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the late home and interment will be made in Forest cemetery in this city.

Personal.

David Coudon, a farmer residing northwest of Edgerton, yesterday while assisting in sawing wood on a steam wood-burning machine, had the misfortune of cutting off the thumb of the left hand. The injury is quite painful.

The first killing frost of the season in this section occurred this morning. Ice formed to reasonable thickness but the damage resultant thereby is light.

H. C. Schmeling was in Oshkosh yesterday, going there on business.

The second horse was bright bay in color, five years old, and weighed 1150 pounds. The other was a small bay mare, five years old and weighed about 900 pounds. One front foot was white. A light rubber tire run about, painted black, and furnished with gray cushions was also stolen.

RESPECTED RESIDENT OF PORTER IS DEAD

Mrs. Albert Freehauf Passed Away at Her Home Last Wednesday After Illness With Paralysis.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Southwest, Porter, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Albert Freehauf, one of the most highly respected residents of this section, died of paralysis at her home Wednesday morning.

Before her marriage she was Miss Amelia Mohs and was born in Stuttgart, Germany, December 28, 1845. In 1862 she left the old home in Germany and came to Watertown, Wis. comin, where she resided for some time.

In 1868 she was married to Albert Freehauf of Janesville. They lived in Center a number of years, and later moved to Porter where they have resided for the past twenty-seven years.

Mrs. Freehauf was the mother of eight children, all of whom are living except two who died in infancy. The surviving children, all of whom were present at the funeral, are: Mrs. Will Seng, of South Dakota; Mrs. W. O'Hara, of Evansville; Charles Freehauf of Iowa; Ella and George Freehauf, who reside at home; and Mrs. Watts of Minnesota.

Mrs. Freehauf was always a faithful member of the German church, a loving mother and a kind neighbor. The funeral services were held from her home last Friday, Nov. Kolthoff and Rev. Coon officiating. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and the remains were tenderly laid to rest in Maple Hill cemetery.

Headaches, Colds, Indigestion, Pains, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Dizziness? If you are not, the most effective, prompt and pleasant method of getting rid of them is to take, now and then, a desertspoonful of the ever refreshing and truly beneficial laxative remedy—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. It is well known throughout the world as the best of family laxative remedies, because it acts so gently and strengthens naturally without irritating the system in any way.

To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., bearing the name of the Company, plainly printed on the front of every package.

Porcelain Not of Persia.

True porcelain was never produced in Persia, but hard paste porcelain in Persian forms and styles of decoration was made in China for the Persian market. Wine covers with powder blue glaze and gold overglaze decoration, small vases, and bowls with bronze lustre glaze and designs reserved in white are found in collections of Persian ware, but these are unquestionably of Chinese origin.

Strive Always for Higher Things.

Toys for Baby.

Among a dozen toys that have been given my baby there were two rattles with hard rings at the ends—just right for a baby to stick down his throat. There was a ball trimmed with loosely sewed bells that the baby immediately pulled off and put in his mouth. There was a worried ball, so fuzzy that it furnished mouthfuls of lint. The only thing that it was possible to leave him with was a rubber ring too large to get in his throat.—Exchange.

MAROONS DEFEATED BY REDS LAST EVENING

Much Interest Taken in Bowling Matches.—Cardinals and Blues Will Meet Tonight.

Last night at Hockett's alleys the Reds won three straight games from the Maroons. This was the first of a series to be played this week, the Blues and the Cardinals meeting tonight and the Greys and the Browns will hold their contest Thursday. Wilson won high score with a total in the game of 186. The highest for the Maroons was Hockett's roll of 176. The results of last night's meeting are as follows:

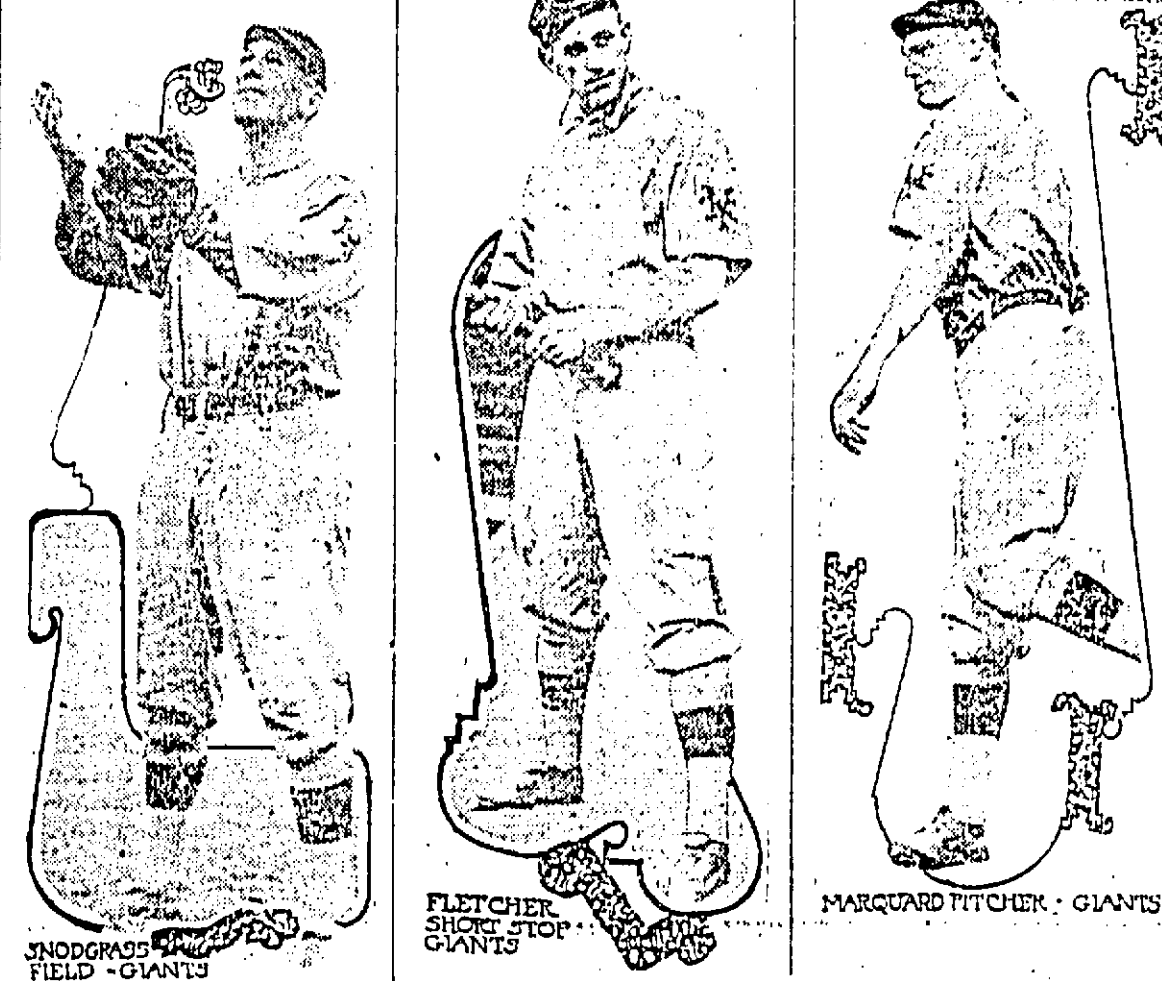

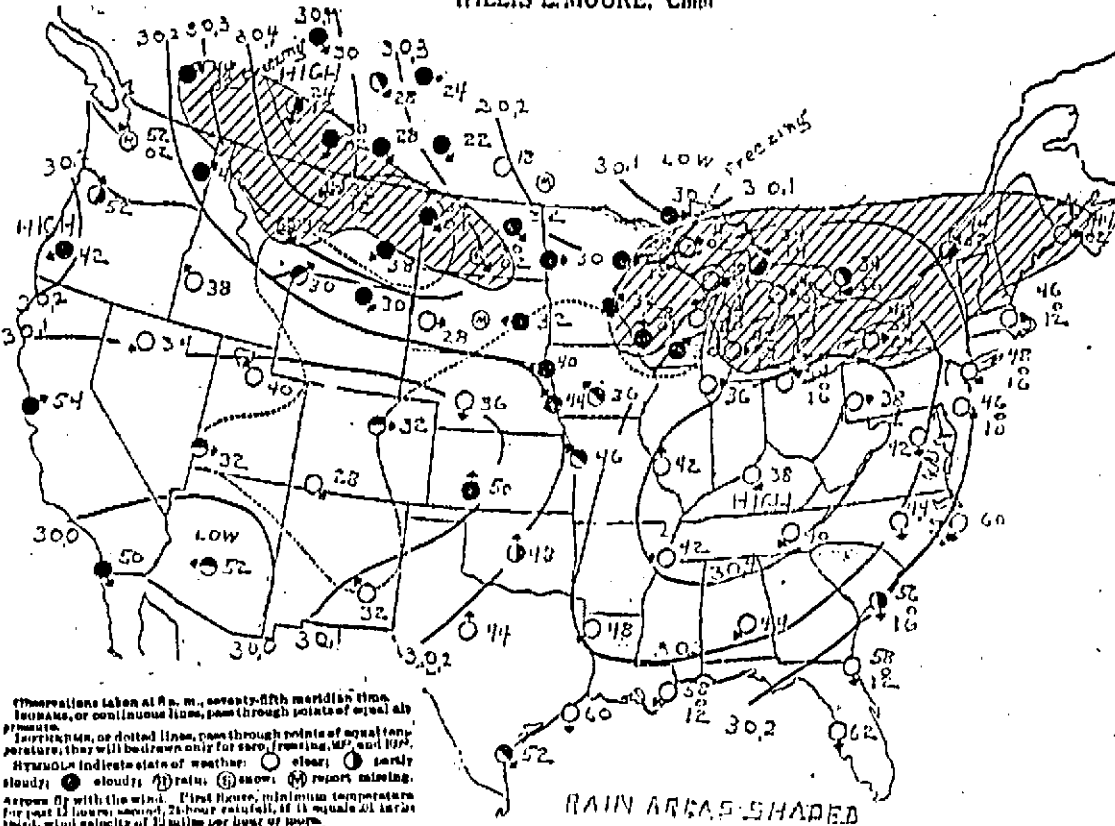

REDS.
Craft, capt. .... 109 137 121
Hockett, ..... 117 103 125
Wilson, ..... 124 136 155

Maroons.
Osborn, capt. .... 148 131 125
J. Baumann, ..... 89 130 101
McGee, ..... 134 117 127
Kapek, ..... 157 126 123
Hockett, ..... 128 124 176

Totals ..... 658 658 652—1966
As a result of this contest the Cardinals now hold first place, and the Reds have raised their average above that of the Greys. Tonight's meet will be watched with a great deal of interest as the Greys are now last in the list and by winning this game would place themselves on a level with the Reds again, while the Cardinals would also be even with Maroons.

Interest in these bowling matches has been on the increase and they are rapidly becoming very popular with Jansville men.

If You Are Thinking of Buying a Base Burner, Read This

Don't buy a Base Burner according to price. Buy it according to its radiating surface.

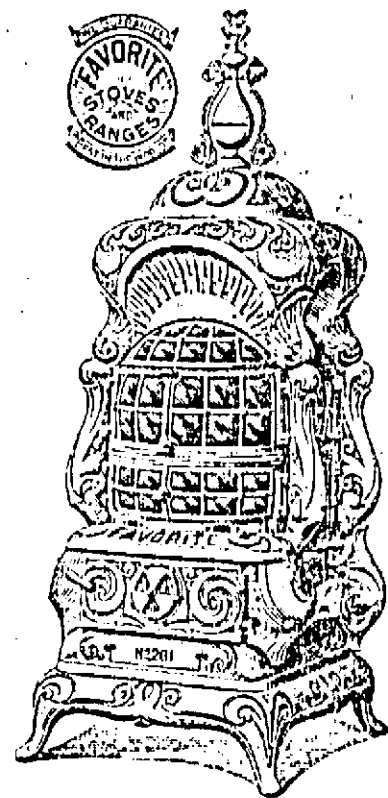

The more radiating surface a Base

Burner has, the more heat it will throw into the room.

Any stove can burn up coal, but mighty few Base Burners send the heat into the room. Most of them send it up the chimney.

The FAVORITE Base Burner is the only stove that throws out all the heat from the coal into the room.

The reason why, is the Favorite flues. The flues in the Favorite Base Burner carry the flame and heat of the fire to every square inch of the stove's surface.

The sectional cut here with explains those flues better than we can in words. The heat passes from the fire into the two outside down flues, across the bottom of the stove, under the ash pit, where it enters the central flue. It then passes back over the bottom, and up the chimney.

Just think of this great radiating surface, and it is more than doubled, because the flues are set out from the back of the stove, and separated from the bottom of the ash pit.

The flues therefore radiate heat from all sides, and the back of the stove, and bottom of the ashpit radiate heat also. These features alone put the Favorite in a class by itself making it the best and most economical heating stove in existence.

But other features of its construction must not be overlooked. Would like to tell you all about them.

BUT LITTLE INTEREST.

There seems to be a lack of interest in the proposition for the city to buy the water works. The Gazette offered the use of its columns, a week ago, for the free discussion of the subject, but thus far no one seems inclined to express an opinion publicly. There is every reason why a question of so much importance should be thoroughly ventilated.

A couple of laboring men, talking about it, the other day, said they favored it because they thought it meant cheaper water and better service. They also thought the city should own all its public utilities. They were small taxpayers, and it is possible they expressed popular sentiment for a majority of the citizens are small property-owners.

It is certain, however, that but few, if any, of the heavy taxpayers favor the scheme. The objections advanced are, that the city would be unwise in running in debt $300,000, and spending the money for property of uncertain value because of depreciation, and because of the fact that the extent of depreciation could not be determined. They also argue that a city government which is not capable of running a stone-crusher, or keeping the city streets in repair, is incompetent to handle a water plant. The question of politics and graft is also raised.

It might be better to defer the purchase until the city is ready to adopt the commission plan of government. This would settle a number of questions, and the sentiment seems to be growing in favor of the plan.

"SO LONG SAM."

The Sullivan County Review recently published the following unique obituary notice from its Monticler correspondent:

"Sam Lobdell is dead. Some days ago he was stricken with poisoning from a wound in the neck, received while fighting with his wife when he was drunk. Mrs. Orlando of Eureka and Hattie of Charleville were in attendance, but despite their utmost efforts the poison spread until as a last resort they used the knife. The operation was of no avail, however, and now he isn't here any more.
"Sam was a unique character. Only once in a generation is a community pestered with such a human viper.

such a moral X; he was the unsolved conundrum. 'What is he good for?' His only virtue was the persistence of his wickedness; his only excellence the stability of his unrepentance. Floozie fighter, liar, wife-beater, chicken thief, egg stealer, profane and vile of speech to the point of nausea he was the trade mark of sin, the sententious emblem of vice, with no crime but work beyond his capacity.
"He was even worse, but he has gone hence and it is never our inclination to kick a man when he is down. Yet at death his proverbial luck was with him. He goes below just as the whitening frosts and the chilling winds are ushering in a long and tedious season for the good who are left. As was often the case when in life and when in jail, he will keep warm and comfortable at others' expense.
"Well, so long, Sam, and so long as it is long, good luck."

WAKE UP.

"What's the matter with business? Why are merchants not replenishing their stocks? Why are many of our mills running on short time? Why are thousands of workmen being laid off? Why do those who have money hesitate to invest it? Why, when prices of good Wall Street securities are lower than they have been in years, is there hesitation on the part of the wealthiest investors to pick up what would have been considered, a few months ago, great bargains?"
"There is but one answer to these questions, and that is, popular distrust caused by self-seeking demagogues, muck-raking magazines and yellow newspapers. Distrust always leads to suspicion and suspicion to loss of confidence. Every reader knows this. He knows it by personal experience. Let him answer the questions we have asked and see if he will come to any other conclusion.
"What should those do who desire a return of prosperity, full resumption of work in the mills, busy clerks at the counters and busy workmen in the factory? Send the self-seeking demagogues, muck-rakers, trust-busters, railroad-smashers and all the rest of the crowd of fanatical theorists and selfish uplifters back to the rear, where they belong.
"Give prosperity one more chance. In this great and glorious country with a kind and overruling Providence has so abundantly blessed. Its greatest curse has been a crop of malcontents—a crop which has grown as rapidly as the weeds while the husbandman is asleep.
"Wake up!"

Leslie's Weekly. This sizes up the situation. The epidemic of muck-raking which infested the country, has had its run, but the aftermath of the disease is still with us, and the end is not yet. Hampton's Magazine, noted as a disturber, has ceased to exist, and others of the same class have discovered that there is a limit to endurance, so far as public sentiment is concerned. The day of the muck-raker has passed, but the seeds of discontent have taken root, and the end is not yet.

The special work in arithmetic at the high school is commendable, and if it could be extended to cover writing, spelling and composition, it would be valuable to the boys and girls so noted for delinquency in these important elementary branches. This is the sort of knowledge demanded by the business world, and when the school fails to supply it, the student enters active life handicapped on account of poor equipment, and the loss sustained is never made good.

The death of John H. Walsh is pathetic and pitiable of the nature of a tragedy. An old man, enfeebled by confinement and humiliated beyond endurance, it was not surprising that the strain was too much for him. The man who followed him so relentlessly, had their revenge, but there is no glory in it, and but little satisfaction in knowing that his death was hastened on that account.

The longer the Stephenson investigation continues, the more of a farce it becomes. The three democratic assemblymen who were accused of selling out for $4,500, have proved to be star witnesses for the defense. The primary law is responsible for the money spent by the junior senator, and all the other candidates who aspired to office. It is a hold-up game from start to finish and the man without money is obliged to pass it up.

Two carloads of silk, valued at $140,000, were received in New York the other day, just seventeen days after it left the Chinese port of shipment. The consignment was rushed across the continent from San Francisco at fast mail speed, the Pennsylvania Central transporting it from Chicago to New York in twenty-four hours. A few years ago a shipment of this kind would have been on the road for ten weeks.

President Taft will extend his journey for three weeks, spending most of the time in the South. In the meantime Attorney General Wickersham will endeavor to keep the country stirred up by telling the corporations what will happen to them "if they don't watch out." The president's official family talks too much.

One hundred and sixty-three cities, with a combined population of three and one-half million, are under the commission plan of government. They are scattered over thirty-three states, and a large majority of them are of the smaller class.

Holy Living. While high thinking does not always prevent low living, it is also most true that there can be no high and holy living without high and holy thinking.—Rev. J. McLeod.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By Roy K. Monlton.

ANCESTRY.

When a mother joined the D. A. R. we blew in lots of tin.
In chasin' up our ancestors before she could get in. We had to find some forfather who'd fit and died and died.

Or mostly so, before she got a single look inside. At times it was embarrassing, to say the very least. To learn some things about the boys who fought away down east. Dad said that mother better quit and let the matter drop. But ma just fixed a hard and most unchangeable eye on pop. And kept right on a-distrin' up traditions of the past. Until she found he quit the bunch, as earth the woman said. It surely looked at one time that she certainly would fall. When she found that nine of them had served their time in jail.

She then dug up a great-great-grand uncle who looked good. Until she let it quit the bunch, as no good soldier should. And father begged most ardently upon his bended knee. For her to stop a-chasin' up her dog-gone family tree. He urged her to join something else and try some safer bet. And said he'd rather have her be a howlin' suffragette.

When she found Uncle Abner 'twas the triumph of her life. Until she learned that he eloped with some lieutenant's wife. She kept right on until one day her joy was made complete. That was the great red-letter day when she found Uncle Pete. It seemed that there was nothing wrong with Uncle Pete at all. Although she probed his private life from early spring till fall.

He was a soldier brave and true, and fit in many fights. And helped to put them thirteen little colonies to rights. Then father bought a new silk hat and us folks on the whole. Was all so proud you couldn't touch us with a ten-foot pole. With Uncle Pete upon our tree, a most adorning limb. We've had a mighty strenuous time in livin' up to him.

"I haven't time to wait for her train?"

"No not a single engagement."
"Well," said he, as he put on his hat and walked towards the door, "you are going to be awfully hungry by day after tomorrow, aren't you?"

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

THE POVERTY THOUGHT

Are you poor?
Then beware the poverty thought. It is no disgrace to be poor; but, as has been remarked, it is "mighty in convenient." More than that, poverty narrows your life and prevents your being what you might be.
Do not misunderstand.
Money will not necessarily bring happiness, nor will it take the place of character. There are better things in life than mere accumulation. But—
You were born for some noble purpose, and poverty keeps you from realizing that purpose, thwarts your desire for accomplishment and subverts your proper destiny.

Do not get it into your head that you must always be poor. That is the poverty thought.
"A man thinketh in his heart so is he."
Once convince yourself that you are doomed to drudgery and want, and that condition will follow.
Get that thought out of you. Get a prosperity thought in.
You need not indulge in vain thoughts of great riches. Lazarus's prayer was best—"Give me neither poverty nor riches." But if you would be prosperous you must—
Think prosperity.

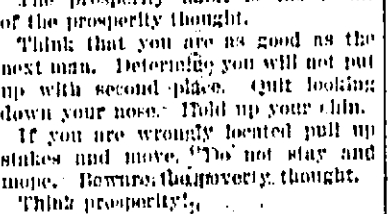

You must first of all be prosperous in your mind, where all things originate. In a sense thoughts are things. Your mental attitude will determine what you do.
You can do what you wish. You can be what you desire. Accidents aside, the positive determination and the persistent affirmation that you will not be poverty stricken will mightily help you to reasonable prosperity.

Above all things, do not imbibed the fatalistic doctrine that you were born for failure.
The prosperity habit is the result of the prosperity thought.
Think that you are as good as the next man. Determine you will not put up with second place. Quit looking down your nose. Hold up your chin. If you are wrongly located pull up stakes and move. "Do not stay and moan. Beware, beggary, thought. Think prosperity!"

Strictly Hygienic.

Roderick, the three-year-old hopeful of a Chicago physician, had from the period of his earliest understanding been impressed that he should never drink unfiltered water. He listened attentively to the Bible story brand told him where Moses smote the rock and the water flowed out to quench the thirst of the Israelites, and interrupted his narrator to ask gravely: "Was it filtered?"

Some folks imagine that they cannot get a bargain in a piano, unless they buy from the private owner, who is, through circumstances, obliged to "sacrifice" his piano. Such persons would be quickly dissillusioned if they saw the fine second hand pianos which I am offering at lower prices than instruments of one half of the value usually sell for. Just think of it! Fine standard pianos, used less than one year and the manufacturer's warranty still good for 9 years, offered now at $98 and up. COMMON SENSE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism has for ages been a puzzle to the doctors. Some claim it to be an infection, a germ disease. Others claim that the cause is uric acid, a kidney disease. It is said that uric acid is carried by the blood into the small apertures of the joints and skin where it crystallizes and it is the small, sharp crystals that cause intense pain with every motion of the body by cutting into the flesh and nerves. Whatever the cause, the best relief known is an Alkaline Elixer of the Saliicylates. The chemical nature of the Saliicylates is to form soluble compounds with the urates. In this way these crystals are dissolved, taken up by the blood and taken out of the body by the kidneys.

This rheumatic elixer is taken in teaspoonful doses in hot water before meals. The cure is often in a day or two, yet the remedy should be taken for some time to thoroughly neutralize the blood and prevent a recurrence of the trouble. The eliminations, as the doctors would say, that is the kidneys and the bowels, should be kept active. Rheumatic Elixer is compounded by Dr. Pfennig, our Graduated Pharmacist and Chemist, who would be pleased to give you any other information you wish. Sold at 50c. Walker Drug Co., Milwaukee, and Silver Sta., the drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

LARGE INCREASE IN STATE TAX LEVY IS SHOWN FOR COUNTY

APPORTIONMENT FOR ROCK COUNTY $25,443.58 MORE THAN LAST YEAR.

SCHOOLS COST MORE

Increase of $17,032.69 for University Normal and Common Schools Alone—State Highway Tax is New Item.

According to the statement of the apportionment of state taxes for Rock county received today from Secretary of State Francis B. Taylor, the increase over last year is $25,443.58. The figures for last year were $116,866.91, while the amount to be raised in the county for the state this year is $142,310.49.

The most substantial increases as shown by the various items on the statement, is for the schools of the state. The increase for the state university is most of all, being $31,523.11 for this year and $22,750.52 for last or a difference of $8,772.59. The increase in the normal schools levy for Rock County is $1,274.81, and for the common schools the increase for this year amounts to $3,681.96.

One item appears on the list this year as the result of the law passed by the state legislature in session last winter known as the state highway act. Rock County will make $10,107.55 for state aid which will be returned to the county for the use of the various towns as they have provided at special meetings to apply for different amounts.

There is a decrease of $709.04 in the amount contributed to the support of the charitable and penal institutions of the state. A slight decrease is also noted in the amount which will go toward the building of the new state capitol, the amount last year being $13,079.17 against $12,995.17. The interest on the general indebtedness shows enough difference this year to have it called a decrease, the actual amount being $29.55. The items that show an increase, however, far exceed the slight decreases which have occurred, making the total increase as stated above $25,443.58.

The statement of taxes apportioned and levied by the state upon Rock County for 1911 is as follows:

For interest on certificate of indebtedness	4,550.33
For free high schools	4,331.72
For graded schools	3,465.38
For State University	31,523.11
For Normal schools	14,157.06
For common schools	53,684.18
For New Capitol	12,995.17
For state highways	10,107.55

Total	$135,144.65
Items of special charges against Rock county are levied as follows:
For care of chronic insane	$ 182.21
For Northern Hospital	37.54
For State Hospital	2,200.22
For Home for Feeble-Minded	1,509.37
For Industrial School for Boys	339.82
For Tuberculosis Sanitarium	18.57
Total special charges	4,378.33
Total school district taxes	$2,436.40
Interest	351.11
Total state levy	$142,310.49

AUTUMN FOLIAGE TO BE THE DECORATIONS

Secretary Lane of the Industrial and Commercial Club Arranges Details of the Coming Show.

Secretary F. E. Lane of the Industrial and Commercial Club is busy these days working out the details of the coming manufacturers' exhibit for the big show that will be held here during the week of November 21. Edward Amerighi has been given charge of the decorations and the West Side rink will be the "winter place" when the doors are thrown open to the public. The gardens and arbors will all be covered with autumn foliage, men having gone into the woods yesterday to secure the coveted leaves and vines, just in time to escape the killing frost of last night. One idea is to have tiny electric lights prep out of pumpkins but these matters are left to Mr. Amerighi. Mr. Lane is also editing a book on Janesville, manufactures which will be given to visitors as a souvenir, there being ten thousand copies printed. Reservations for space also continue and it is now certain that almost all the floor space will be occupied before the show opens.

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

EVANSVILLE.

Evansville, Oct. 24.—Saturday afternoon when Father McDermott, together with Mrs. Joe Hadenburger, Miss Antoinette Hadenburger and John Litzler, were returning from Evansville, a rather serious accident occurred. They were driving at good speed and upon crossing a railroad crossing, which was somewhat elevated it threw Mrs. Hadenburger and Miss Hadenburger, who were occupying the back seat of the auto, nearly over the front into the wind shield. This caused Father McDermott who was driving the car to lose control, and the machine ran for some little ways in the road, then running to the side of the road into a support of a cement bridge. From here it went into the ditch but the bank was high enough on the opposite side to keep it from tipping over. The occupants were all thrown out but not seriously injured. The front wheels and engine of the car were badly demoralized. The party then hired a nearby journey to take them to Footville, where another car brought them back to Evansville. The wrecked car belonging to Father McDermott was taken to Janesville for repairs.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Hyne, Monday, Oct. 23, 1911.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Martin are visiting friends in Janesville and Albany. Miss Gladys Clifford, Ethel Brown, and Eva Park of Janesville spent Sunday at their parental homes in this city.

The St. Paul's Choir went to Footville Sunday to sing at special services there.

R. C. Searies left for Fremont yesterday.

James S. Tolles.

James S. Tolles passed away at his home about twelve o'clock last night. The deceased was 80 years old and had been a resident of this place for many years. He was well-known here and had held the position of janitor in a number of the local banks and churches.

Good Chance for Her.

Elderly Lotheria (to chorus girl)—Well, Miz, you'll be the lucky one, you know. I lived with my first wife 12 years before we separated, and with the second six. That makes 18. So if you marry me and stay with me seven years, I shall celebrate my silver wedding with you.—Elegante Matter.

Whistler's Sarcaasm.

James McNeil Whistler is said once to have confronted Oscar Wilde—at the height of the aesthetic movement—with Du Maurier, who was satirizing the Panslathvates in Punch with all his might, and to have gently inquired: "Which of you two invented the other?"

Misbehaving Moon.

Papa had shown Ethel the full moon the night before. It was her first sight and she seemed greatly impressed. Next morning, as soon as she was out of bed, she ran to the window and gazed at the sky for a few moments. The sky was streaked with white clouds. She called out: "O, papa, come quick; the moon has scratched the sky all up."

An Early Hair Restorer.

A remedy for baldness has recently been found by a learned Egyptologist, inscribed in a papyrus. It is said to have been used by King Chintu, the second sovereign of the first dynasty. The recipe is as follows: "A mixture of dogs' paws, dates and asses' hoofs, ground up and cooked in oil. The head is to be rubbed vigorously with the preparation.—Family Doctor.

Be Generous in Judgment.

Every man should be judged by his best, or, if not by his best alone, by the general tenor of his life, and we doubt whether any good is gained by dwelling upon the defects of a good man's life, even though it may make him seem more "human."

A Cook in Need.

Husband—"Did the cook you hired show up?" Wife—"No. Wasn't it fortunate? Another one rang our bell by mistake, looking for Mrs. Gillet, next door, and I've kept her instead."—Harper's Bazar.

Simple and Effective.

My little boy, three years old, troubled me considerably by going to the homes of neighbors without permission, so I followed this plan, writes a mother. Whenever I give him permission to go I pin on him a little card on which is written the word "permission." When the neighbors see the badge they allow him to stay and play with the children. If he appears without it, they send him home. The card can be used many times, and the boy enjoys wearing it.

No Hope.

"Well, how are you getting on with your admirer, Alice?" "Oh, I have given up all hope now." "We got stuck in an elevator for three hours yesterday and even that didn't make him propose."

Another Baconian Theory.

"They say Shakespeare was a bad actor." "Yes," replied Mr. Sturgeson Barker; "but maybe Bacon started that story to get even with Shakespeare for taking liberties with his manuscripts."

They War on Each Other.

What a pugnacious community it is that inhabits the sea! All the creatures in it live on each other, and the whole extent of that vast body of water is a slaughter house, where the stronger prey on the weak constantly. There is no other way for them to sustain life, but doesn't it seem queer that nature should have ordained such a state of things?

Foley's Kidney Remedy vs. a Hopeless Case.

Hon. A. J. E. Freeman says: "I had a severe case of kidney trouble and could not work and my case seemed hopeless. I used several well known kidney remedies, and had the services of a doctor all of which gave me no relief. One large bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me and I have never been bothered since. I have also recommended it to my friends who all received the same good results."—Buckley Drug Co.

THE THEATERS

Charles Klein's eminently successful new play, "The Gamblers," will receive its first local presentation at Myers Theatre Tuesday night, Oct. 24. In this drama Mr. Klein has taken gambling as his theme—not the petty kind, but that which is done with fortune in Wall street. John Emerson, an old-school financier who hitherto has been satisfied to count his profits by the thousands, is induced by his over-ambitious son to raise the stakes to millions. The solidly entrenched big financial interests, fearing a strong rival, determine to crush the Emersons. In his desperate efforts to resist his powerful enemies, young Emerson becomes a federal law and both father and son and their partners face prison sentences. All but the son are saved through the intervention of a woman. She, symbolically, is gambling for happiness.

YOUR SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH WILL FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES

Indigestion and all other Stomach disorders go off after taking a little Diapopsin.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapopsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bloating, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapopsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour, and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Peps Diapopsin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief within five minutes.

Hogs and Cattle Suffer With Downward Movement This Morning and Demand Is Generally Dull.
[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The hog market was low and sluggish this morning, the demand being slack for even the best offerings, with a resulting depression in prices throughout the entire lot. The best hogs topped the market at $6.50.

The cattle market was weak this morning and the best heaves dropped from yesterday's high mark of $8.50 to $8.25. The receipts totaled 10,000. The sheep market remained unchanged for the most part with receipts at 50,000.

Imported Articles Now Hold Sway With the Exception of Irish Potatoes Which Are Flooding the Market at From 35c@45c.

Housewives who watch the markets daily realize that the time has come when summer vegetables and fruits are almost gone and winter products are becoming more evident. Those who have been supplied from their own gardens for some time are now beginning to buy imported articles with the exception of Irish potatoes and perhaps a few apples.

Today the markets are being flooded with potatoes which are being brought in by the wagon load from the surrounding farms and the grocers are putting in their winter supply. At present the markets are very quiet and no very important changes can be seen in other prices or articles.

ALLEGED ASSAILANT OF TEACHER TRIED

George Brown, Charged With Assault of Miss Gladys Price, Placed on Trial in Manitoba.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Morden, Man., Oct. 24.—As a sequel to the Manitoba manhunt that attracted attention on both sides of the international boundary a few months ago, George Brown, the alleged assailant of the Riverdale school teacher, will be placed on trial at the fall session which began here today.

Brown's alleged victim was Miss Gladys Price, a member of a prominent family and a young woman of excellent reputation. According to the testimony given at the preliminary hearing Brown appeared at the country school where Miss Price was engaged as a teacher a short time after she had dismissed her scholars for the day. The man was in an intoxicated condition. After overpowering the young woman he dragged her into the adjacent woods and kept her a captive there for thirty-six hours. Only after the man had fallen into a drunk on stupor was he able to escape and make his way to a neighboring house. She was in a pitiable condition, and for several days it was feared she would not survive the shock.

The young woman's story aroused the entire surrounding country and within a few hours armed posse were in pursuit of the alleged assailant. The chase extended across the border to Hannah, N. D., where Brown was arrested and later, it is said, identified by Miss Price as the man who had held her captive.

Miss Price, who has since become Mrs. Frank Patterson, is expected to be the chief witness against Brown. In addition to the more serious charge Brown will have to stand trial for the attempted murder of William Adams, a snowshoe hotel proprietor, who was shot and seriously wounded in the man-hunt.

SENATOR LORIMER BEFORE THE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.

Chicago, Ill.—The most interested spectator to the committee investigating the election of Senator Lorimer is the senator himself. He has been advanced from a backbench on the streets of Chicago to the highest honor possible conferred upon a man by his state constituents.

A flight of stairs has been erected in Paris over which 11,000,000 persons have passed without so much as scratching the surface. These steps are almost imperishable, for in the concrete of which they are constructed a generous proportion of carborundum has been introduced, and since carborundum is almost as hard as the diamond, it has given the concrete a wearing quality which no marble or granite could possibly approach.

Making Use of Street Rubbish.

At Southwark, London, and at St. Owen, France, street rubbish is transformed into a marketable product. At Southwark all the refuse is crushed to a powder, which is sold as a manure. At St. Owen the powder thus made, with the addition of combustible substances, is formed into a cheap fuel.

Should This Marriage Be Postponed?

A YOUNG woman writes that she is engaged to a young man and that the wedding day is set. But that now within a few weeks of when they are to be married, he has been promoted to a higher, but much more difficult position, and that until he has mastered his new duties, he would like to put off his marriage. He wants to give every bit of his attention and ability to this new work; for he is ambitious to make good and he doesn't want anything to distract his mind from it. He thinks that if he gets married, the new life will, to some extent, take his mind from his work, and he has therefore asked her to postpone the wedding perhaps a year, at least six months.

But she thinks this is unreasonable. She contends that in asking this, he shows that he cares more for the business than he does for her. And she wants to know, too, what will her friends think if she puts the wedding off. And she says that instead of postponing the wedding, she feels like breaking the engagement; only, she concludes, that would break her heart.

The trouble here, it seems to me, is that she is thinking of herself and of what friends will say, more than she is thinking of him. She has promised to be a helpmate to him. Now in what way can she help the most? How can she best show and prove her love? These are the questions she should ask. Real love forgets self. And if she will forget herself, and study these questions, she may see a little more clearly what is the wisest course.

Business today is a hard task-master, and this man who is out in the business world knows it. He knows better than does she what will be required of him in his new position. He is quite right, too, when he sees that the nervousness of married life will take much of his time and thought. That he perceives this, and does not want to undertake what he cannot put through, is to his credit. And he wishes to succeed in this new business probably as much, if not more, for her sake than for his own. So that it seems to me that his request is not only reasonable, but wise.

But if she is going to break the engagement, or else continually load him with reproaches, she will interfere with his attention to the business and distract his mind from it quite as much as would the trials of starting a new home. If she does postpone it at his request, she should drop the matter right there, and throw all her interest into his new work, and inspire and help him as much as possible.

On the other hand, if she has good grounds for thinking he cares more for his business than he does for her, or purposes postponing it because in reality he is tired of her, then indeed is she wise to wait until she has entirely settled this in her mind. To enter into a marriage shadowed by such a doubt would only be to invite trouble.

It seems to me the wisest course is to wait, to throw all her enthusiasm and interest into his new work; and if in the course of time, she becomes convinced that he is purely selfish and indifferent, then to break off the engagement altogether.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THERE is a certain kind of vanity which has a clever habit of masquerading in the sheep's clothing of modesty, and which I would very much like to unmask.

And that is the vanity of the person who is always fancying that some one or other dislikes him.

He, or more often she, for men seldom have time for such notions—meets a new acquaintance. "I know that woman does dislike me," she declares afterwards.

In all probability that woman didn't think enough about her to dislike her, but of course her companion is obliged to assure her that the new acquaintance was doubtless much impressed with her beauty and brilliance.

"I wish I could make people like me," is a favorite plaint of this type of person.

The unfortunate creature to whom this plaint is made naturally assumes her that people do like her, and often instances of her popularity.

But she is very hard to be convinced. Apparently the difficulty is due to her extreme modesty and diffidence. Actually it is a part of the game. For she will not submit to be convinced until she is sure that she has drained every possible compliment from her resource.

When she feels that this unwelcome moment has come she will reluctantly desert only to carry her plaint to some other victim as soon as she gets a good opportunity.

The strange part of the process is that the victim seldom realizes that it is vanity to which he is catering. He may dislike the process, he may not like to give praise when it is extorted from him at the pistol point of self-deprecation by this social highwayman, but he usually thinks it is an excess of humility that is causing all the trouble.

Whereas, as a matter of fact, it is almost always vanity pure and simple. Perhaps, to be just, I should admit that the victim is not the only one deceived.

I suppose it is probable that the social highwayman himself honestly believes that she thinks people do not like her and that she says so because she is modest.

Doubtless that is why she is so clever in deceiving her victim—because she is herself a co-victim of the delusion.

They say ignorance of the law is no excuse.

I wonder if ignorance of one's self is any better exemption?

I wonder, too, if some of the abodes in that place which is said to be paved with good intentions may not be plagued with self-deceptions.

MUNICIPAL HOUSEKEEPING.
AROLINE Bartlett Crane is a remarkable woman doing a remarkable work. She began at home—cleaning up the city of Kalamazoo. Now she has more calls than she can fill from mayors of cities and state boards of health to investigate and report on conditions of water supply, dairies, slaughter houses, groceries, schools in towns and cities in all parts of the country. She calls her subject "Municipal Housekeeping."

Not long ago I accompanied Mrs. Crane on one of her tours. No skilled scientist could pursue an investigation with greater thoroughness; no skilled housekeeper could be more observant of dust and dirt in her own house than she of the good and bad conditions of a city.

The butcher and baker and candy-maker saw us coming and were cleaning up, but they did not conceal anything from her practiced eye. She complimented the newly mopped floor of a butcher shop, but observing the dirty hands of the sausage maker she asked for the wash basin and towel; his surprise and unconscious glance at the apron he wore, were sufficient answer. In the front room of a bakery the bread and cakes and pies were neatly covered in glass, but the back room where the baking was done was not provided with suitable light or ventilation or shelving. In one instance a large pan of delectable cream puffs sat on the floor in the neighborhood of a rat trap with a cat wandering around. In another the baker sat on the mixing table as he talked to us. "Think of a woman sitting on a bread board."

It is a part of Mrs. Crane's plan after she finishes the inspection of a city to hold a public meeting. There was a great crowd to hear her. She made the community feel its responsibilities, and each individual its share. "The people went home with the feeling of a woman the night before house cleaning is to begin;—a big lot of hard work ahead that must be done, determined to do it."

WHAT IS MEANT BY PRESENT CONTEST

Feature Editor Writes More in Detail How Contestants Should Arrange Their Articles.

I find there is some misunderstanding by a few readers of this page just what is meant by the present contest. In order to straighten this matter out and give everyone a good fair start I will make matters more plain, if possible.

The idea is to secure plans for preparing for the table supply for winter. By this I mean—take the average housewife and find it more economical to buy in a large stock of supplies, either home-made or purchased from the grocer, or to depend upon the grocer for their daily needs?

In writing on this subject it will not be necessary to explain how you arrange your table; what you give your family to eat, but tell how you store away your supplies so they will keep, if you do so.

Write on one side of the paper only. Limit your article to five hundred words and have it in the hands of the Feature Editor by November 15th at the latest—the earlier the better.

If there are any questions you wish to ask write to the Feature Editor and your questions will be answered at once.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Wanting Popularity of the Loaf Cake, Pans and Oven Temperatures. By Alice E. Whitaker.

Within a decade or so loaf cake has fallen behind the layer cake in favor. Experienced, middle-aged cooks say that this shows a deterioration in cake making for the loaf cake is usually much more difficult to bake in perfect form than that made in a thin layer. Loaf cakes are baked in either brick shape, or round loaves and for the latter the tube pan is most generally used because it ensures baking the center of a loaf without burning the outside. Some pans have several projections on the top of which paper may be laid to prevent too rapid baking on the top.

Cake pans if made of tin are better if tempered, or seasoned as cooks say, by long usage. When tin was the only material for cake pans the thoughtful mother often presented her newly married daughter with a few more of sufficient age to make them more valuable than new ones which are almost sure to cause a loaf to stick and break.

In these days the bride may take her aluminum or enamel pans direct from the store and use it successfully. Neither is there need of lining pans with buttered or oiled papers. The best way is to brush the pan over with melted butter using the little five cent pastry brush or a bit of cheese cloth, then dredge generously with flour making sure that the entire surface is covered. Invert and rap lightly to dispose of the surplus flour.

When filling a cake pan push the batter into the corners even making a slight depression in the center. The heat being greater on the sides next to the tin, causes a crust to form sooner round the edges than in the center where the heat is less. The batter can more easily rise and when the heat is kept fairly high out of causing a "cup" in the center. A sheet of paper laid lightly over the top of a cake pan prevents a crust from forming too soon, or before the batter has risen sufficiently.

If a coal range is used the peculiarities of the oven must be understood but in a gas oven there is nothing uncertain. One way to bake a loaf cake in a gas oven is to light both burners and turn to a more heat than as the cake materials, previously measured and sifted, are put together. Set the cake in and continue baking with both burners unchanged.

Another way is to heat the oven with only the front burner and that turned on but two-thirds, for five minutes before the cake is put in and continue baking with the same heat. Some fine cooks advise setting a pan of hot water on the floor of the oven for the first fifteen minutes that the cake is baking. This tends to make a moist heat and prevent a crust forming too soon.

A loaf cake should bake slowly and an hour is none too long for a medium sized pan. Let the cake do nothing but rise in the first twenty minutes, in the second period of the same length let it rise more and begin to brown and in the last twenty minutes let it acquire a rich light brown but thin crust and shrink from the pan to denote that it is done.

Never hurry a cake out of a pan. When it shrinks from the pan set it aside for 15 to 25 minutes then lay a board or rack over the top of the pan and invert. Let the pan stand upside down until the cake drops which it will without breaking if the pan was prepared after the manner described.

Chill a cake before covering with icing, which not only makes a cake taste better but also keeps it moist by protecting it from the air. When cutting a cake it is always best to press the knife carefully through the icing or crust first. A loaf may be sliced evenly by holding a strong thread firmly in each hand and drawing it down through the loaf at even distances apart. This wastes not a crumb and makes a smooth slice.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, October 23.—The fashions of the present day are extremely gorgeous and extravagant as to materials and trimming and, in many cases the effects are bizarre and sensational; but it cannot be denied that, generally speaking, the models evolved by the great designers in Paris are needlessly original and of great artistic beauty. It is only nature that the richest materials and most costly trimmings should enter into the construction of evening toilettes, but the extravagance displayed in the latest models from the Paris shops is almost incredible.

Many of the new evening frocks are exceedingly simple in line. A straight falling or slightly draped tulle surmounts a clinging narrow underrobe, and some sort of flesh netting the bodice. Beyond that, color scheme and material furnish originality and charm and the completed whole is extremely likable if not dazzling or striking. There are lovely things in white as well as in color, more attractive white evening frocks than people have been accustomed to see in recent seasons. There are quantities of white and black and black and white, too, though black and silver seems to have been substituted largely for the more hackneyed black and white.

Only a skilled artist can handle drapery successfully and many of the evening models that have a simple air owe their charm to meretricious certainty in the management of drapery. One tulle is perhaps superimposed upon another and another upon that, yet the lines and tones are blended into a harmonious whole, with no effect of patchwork. The disastrous results of an attempt at such effects by a bungling hand may be seen wherever cheap, pretentious models are gathered together, but the great French masters are revelling in an opportunity of handling such wonderful fabrics as this generation has not before known.

Silver lace of all kinds, silver embroideries of all kinds are used in the black and silver combinations. For instance the breath of silver being swathing tulle fashion a black satin frock from a great Parisian house is a curious open design of silver net, superb in workmanship, extraordinarily effective, bordered on one edge by deep fringe. It forms or covers the entire left side of the décolleté bodice, and the right side of the bodice is entirely of pale pink chiffon draped diagonally over the shoulder and bordered by very narrow fringe corresponding with the wide fringe of the tulle.

All of the famous makers have a liking for a touch of pale pink chiffon or tulle about the bosom of the black evening frock and indeed with bodices other than black. Frequently this flesh pink is so used that it gives from a distance a rather startling effect of extreme décolletage to a frock which is in reality discreetly high. But this is not always the case and there is no denying that the soft delicate pink softens the pronounced color tone of the frock where it nears the face more subtly and quite as becomingly as the white or cream to which women have been more accustomed.

The black velvet evening gown will be a noticeable feature of the winter season, and some of the handsomest models in this material have their relief only in the flesh pink tulle or chiffon referred to and in embroidery of brilliant. Worth loves this scheme and has turned out some exceedingly beautiful models of this type. The velvet, both plain and brocaded, when used in evening models, are confined chiefly to the skirt section of the model, rising on the bodice to a high waist line or in high fashion, with the draped bodice of tulle or lace or chiffon. In this way one avoids any embarrassing effect and yet secures the superb effect of the velvet.

The brocade velvets are beautifully made and charming beyond description, but however light and supple, they almost invariably give an impression of heaviness and excessive warmth when used in a bodice, and this combination of the sheer bodice drapery with the velvet skirt is happy and becoming. The plain one tone velvets can more successfully be used for at least a part of the bodice than can the brocades, and some of the handsomest velvet models show one side of the bodice in the velvet draped across and amalgamating with the skirt, while the other and underside of the bodice is in lace or tulle. A V-shaped partially filled in usually results from this arrangement and from most of the popular hem draperies and as is much seen, but sometimes the cross drape by which a bodice and skirt are brought into one covers only a small section of the bodice, leaving the décolletage round or square.

Almost all colors are admissible for afternoon gowns, but there is still a decided preference for the darker shades. A great deal of dark blue is used—dark blue chiffon with dark blue taffeta, drake-neck-blue silk voile over satin and soft dark blue silk with white satin collars and bows, and so forth. Black and white is almost as popular for afternoon wear as it is for evening.

Probably some afternoon dresses in old gold, old rose and one or two of the leaf and grass greens. The lighter blues—the blue, powder, lizard and mauve and water shades—are also used to some extent, but blue and black are decidedly the smartest colors.

For evening the range of colors is wider. A great deal of all white is used and also white with silver, with steel and with jet. Very fine white batiste embroidery, Roman cut work and white lace are used over black. Black net, chiffon, marquisette and lace are used over white, or with a vivid blue—a dark blue being too somber for evening use. The newest evening color is a bright rose red, not as harsh as cerise nor as purplish as the heavy red of last year.

Purple itself is a good evening color with white, and it is also used with gold and coronation red for evening wraps. The pale shades of porcelain blue are lovely with steel, silver and crystal. Doll transparent reds are used over gray, and yellow and canary color are embroidered in black or coral and used over gray or soft color. Nattier blue is used as a trimming with very pale pink and coral; amingo and corals are used on white. The metallic effects are rarely seen now in materials, but they are very popular in trimmings, especially in fringes and bead embroideries. For young girls white, pale pink, blue and yellow are more suitable than older, older colors.

The broad, flat hats so much worn during the past summer are now made of "ratine," usually white, violet or khaki-colored. They are trimmed in the side with a large and flat cord made of the same cloth or with two wings of the same shade. For more dressy hats violet velvet is greatly in favor. These hats, very simple in shape, are made up entirely of velvet or with a large violet tulle bow, in which case the hat is also lined with tulle. Wings and feathers are also seen, but always in the same shade as the hat. Practical as well as dressy are the large black velvet hats trimmed with black tulle and lined underneath with white tulle.

FARMERS COMPLETE WORK OF SEASON IN SPITE OF THE RAIN

Heavy Downpour, Has Not Caused Great Amount of Delay Among Farmers in This Section.

Numerous reports have been heard lately concerning the harm done to the farmers' products by the recent rainy weather which in many cases have no foundation at all. About the only thing hurt by the over abundance of rain this fall has been the beans, and despite this loss continued dry spell this summer the crops this year have averaged very well.

Almost no corn is standing at the present time the entire crop having been cut previous to the heavy rains and probably one acre out of a hundred is being cut now. Also the ground throughout this part of the country has dried out enough within the last week except in the very low places to permit the use of binders so that very little if any is being harvested by hand as has been reported. It is yet early to make the corn crop as it has not had time to dry out thoroughly after the long rainy spell, but the last few days have been ideal for this with the cold dry wind. Some little trouble is expected this winter to keep the corn, as considerable mold is found, but few farmers have noticed anything in the husks. The market on corn will begin to be active in about a week or ten days, some being already on sale.

Delays Beet Delivery.

Beet raisers are feeling down in the mouth at present owing to the fact that the beet did not shine at the proper time when it was needed to mature the beets and the rain which fell almost continuously for so long has made the average of sugar in the beets less than was expected. Last year's crop was so successful that the acreage was greatly increased this season, many of the farmers putting in two and three times as much as last year. Wet grounds have been delaying the digging and it is only within the last few days that any large quantities have been harvested.

This condition in the country very similar to the reports of 1881 when a hot, dry summer was followed by a season of heavy rains which did much damage both in city and country. Taken as a whole this has been a year which would compare very favorably with past years. Although the wet weather hurt the grains and the dry weather hurt the beets, there was a large output of potatoes and a fair sized crop of corn.

Even the farmers are coming into contact with the new laws concerning weights and measures which have recently been passed to take effect January first. It will be impossible to sell wood by the load after this date, every load being of so many cubic feet. Also a duplicate weight ticket must be given with every load of coal, coke, or charcoal, thus doing away with the practice of dishonest dealers of giving short weight.

The Elgin Market.

There is a movement among Wisconsin which is of universal interest to the farmers, and creamery men throughout the state to put an end to the high handed methods of the Elgin board of trade in regard to the butter market. Inasmuch as the Wisconsin output is much heavier than that of Illinois, it would be only fair for the farmers who have dairies and the other producers in the state to have a word in the Elgin board. An effort will be made to take control of the next meeting of Elgin by Wisconsin butter men and calling this a rival board will be started at Wausau which will force the Illinois men to come to terms.

THE EASY MARK.

The latest proposition of which ancient and modern history makes any record is the man who kisses a prosperous business woman and books an office in the city.

The winter's at the door, full soon to hear him roar, and where's the roll to get my coat and buy of grab a star? Oh, where's the clanking cash to keep the kids in hoah and ready clothes and turba and shoes and other trash? The money—oh how's it at, to buy my train in hat, and hay and show to feed the cow and keep home for the cat? I spent too much, I seen, for wholesome gasoline; I know no way to go abroad and see the blue and green. I journeyed here and there, throw money in the air; and now I'm broke, my hat's in soak, and I am in despair. I see a million changes, like me, in doleful dumps, the while I gaze on bygone days and work the busy pumps. Like me they blow their backs among the drakes and ducks and have no roll to buy their coat—and here's all tips and tucks. When this dread winter flies you'll see me passing wise; in summer time I'll suit the dime for winter's beef and pies.

CHILD'S HEAD SOLID MASS OF HUMOR

It Was Awful, Cried Continually, Had to Hold and Watch Him to Keep Him from Scratching. Suffering Was Dreadful.

Had not Used Half a Set of Cuticura Remedies Before Head Was Clear and Free from Eczema.

"I think the Cuticura Remedies are the best remedies for eczema. I have ever heard of. My son had a head which was so much itchy when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave us medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was so solid mass, that I did not know what to do. I had to hold him and watch him (to keep him) from scratching the sores. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura. Result: a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the ointment as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale throughout the world, but to those who have suffered from eczema and are without faith in any treatment, a liberal sample of each with 32-p. booklet on the skin will be mailed free, on application. Address: Patent Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 121, Boston.

The actress had never come up to such a dramatic point in any of her plays. With her hands folded in her lap she looked at him steadily, and he could not understand the expression that crossed her face. He heard her exclamation: "Oh, gracious!"

"I've brought the papers back with me," said the westerner, "and it is between you and me how we act. If Dan marries you I will be bound to do what old Blair would have done—cut him off—let him feel his feet on the ground, and the result of his own folly."

He had taken his glasses off while he made this assertion. Now he put them on again.

"If you give him up I'll divide with the boy and be rich enough still to hand over to my wife all she wants to spend."

She turned her face away from him and leaned her head once more upon her hands. "He heard her softly murmuring under her breath, with an absent look on her face, accompanied by a still more incomprehensible smile."

"That's how it stands," he concluded.

She seemed to have forgotten him entirely, and he caught his breath when she turned about abruptly and said:

"My goodness, how Dan will hate being poor! He will have to sell all his stickpins and his motor car and all the things he has given me. It will be quite a little to start on, but he will hate it, he is so very smart."

"Why, you don't mean to say—"

Ruggles gasped.

And with a charming smile as she rose to put their conversation at an end, she said:

"Why, you don't mean to say that you thought I wouldn't stand by him?" She seemed, as she put her hands upon her hips with something of a defiant look at the elder man, as though she just then stood by her pampered lover.

"I thought you cared some for the boy," Ruggles said.

"Well, I am showing it."

"You want to ruin him to show it, do you?"

An though he thought the subject denuded he walked heavily toward the door.

"You know how it stands. I have nothing more to say." He knew that he had signally failed, and as a sudden resentment rose in him he exclaimed, almost brutally:

"I am damned glad the old man is dead; I am glad his mother's dead, and I am glad I have got no son."

The next moment she was at his side, and he felt that she clung to his arm. Her sensitive, beautiful face, all drawn with emotion, was raised to his.

"Oh, you'll kill me—you'll kill me! Just look how very ill I am; you are making me crazy. I just worship him."

"Give him up, then," said Ruggles steadily.

She faltered: "I can't—I can't—it won't be for long—with a terrible pathos in her voice. 'You don't know how different I am; you don't know what a new life we were going to lead.'"

Stammering, and with intense meaning, Ruggles, looking down at her, said: "My dear child—my dear child."

In his few words something perhaps made her see in a flash her past and what the question really was. She dropped Ruggles' arm. She stood for a moment with her arms folded across her breast, her head bent down, and the man at the door waited, feeling that Dan's whole life was in the balance of the moment. When she spoke again her voice was hard and entirely devoid of the lovely appealing quality which brought her so much admiration from the public.

"If I give him up," she said slowly, "what will you do?"

"Why," he answered, "I'll divide with Dan and let things stand just as they are."

CHAPTER XXV.

Letty, Lane Runs Away.

He had not got upstairs to his rooms at the Carlton before a note was handed him from the actress, bidding him to return at once to the Savoy, and Ruggles, his heart hammering like a trip hammer, rushed up to his rooms, made an evening toilet, for carry her and her small luggage and Higgins away.

In their sitting-room in the Carlton a half-hour later the door was thrown open and Dan Blair came in like a madman. Without preamble he seized Ruggles by the arm.

"Look here," he cried, "what have you been doing? Tell me now, and tell me the truth, or, by God, I don't know what I'll do. You want to the Savoy. You want there twice. Anyhow, where's she?"

Dan, slender as he was beside Ruggles' great frame, shook the elder man as though he had been a terrier.

"Speak to me. Where has she gone?"

He stared in the westerner's face, his eyes bloodshot. "Why in thunder don't you say something?"

And Ruggles prayed for some power to unloose his thickening tongue.

"You say she's gone?" he questioned.

"I say," said the boy, "that you've been meddling in my affairs with the woman I love. I don't know what you have said to her, but it's only your age that keeps me from striking you. Don't you know?"

"You are spoiling my life! Don't you know that?" A torrent of feeling coming to his lips, his eyes suffused, the tears rolled down his face. He walked away into his own room, remained there a few moments, and when he came out again he carried in his hand his valise, which he put down with a bang on the table. More calmly, but still in great anger, he said to his father's friend:

"Now, can you tell me what you've done or not?"

"Dan," said Ruggles with difficulty, "if you will sit down a moment we can—"

The boy laughed in his face. "Sit down!" he cried. "Why, I think you must have lost your reason. I have chartered a motor car out there and the damned thing has burst a tire and they are fixing it up for me. It will be ready in about two minutes and then I am going to follow wherever she has gone. She crossed to Paris, but I can get there before she can even with this damned accident. But, before I go, I want you to tell me what you said."

"Why," said Ruggles quietly, "I told her you were poor, and she turned you down."

His words were faint.

"God!" said the boy under his breath. "That's the way you think about truth. Lie to a woman to save my precious soul! But I expect," he said, "you think she is so immoral and so bad that she will hurt me. Well," he said, with great emphasis, "she has never done anything in her life that comes up to what you've done. Never! And nothing has ever hurt me so."

His lips trembled. "I have lost my respect for you, for my father's friend, and as far as she is concerned, I don't care what she marries me for. She has got to marry me, and if she doesn't"—he had no idea, in his passion, what he was saying or how—

"why, I think I'll kill you first and then blow my own brains out!" And with these mad words he grabbed up his valise and bolted from the room, and Ruggles could hear his running feet tearing down the corridor.

CHAPTER XXVI.

White and Coral.

Spring in Paris, which comes in a fashion so divine that even the most calloused and indifferent are impressed by its beauty, awakened no answering response in the heart of the young man who, from his hotel window, looked out on the desecrated gardens of the Tuilleries—on the distant spires of churches whose names he did not know—on the square block of old palaces. He had missed the boat across the channel taken by Letty Lane, and the delay had made him lose what little trace of her he had.

In the early hours of the morning he had flung himself in at the St. James, taken the indifferent room they could give him in the crowded season, and excited as he was he slept and did not waken until noon. Blair thought it would be a matter of a few hours only to find the whereabouts of the celebrated actress, but it was not such an easy job. He had not guessed that she might be traveling incognito, and at none of the hotels could he hear news of her, nor did he pass her in the crowded, noisy, rustling, crying streets, though he searched motors for her with eager eyes, and haunted restaurants and cafes, and went everywhere that he thought she might be likely to be.

At the end of the third day, unsuccessful and in despair, having hardly slept and scarcely eaten, the unhappy young lover found himself taking a slight luncheon in the little restaurant known as the "Perron" down on the Quai. His head on his hand, for the present moment the joy of life gone from him, he looked out through the windows at the Seine, at the bridge and the lines of flowering trees. He was the only occupant of the upper room where, of late, he had ordered his luncheon.

Recognizing People.

Data have been gathered in Germany with reference to the distance at which persons may be recognized by their faces and figures. If one has good eyes, the Germans claim, one cannot recognize a person whom he has seen only once at a greater distance than 82 feet. If the person is well known to one, one may recognize him at 300 feet and if it is a member of one's family, even at 600 feet.—Scientific American.

No Wedding Presents.

Those who are opposed to the giving of wedding presents will hail with approval the step taken by a very wealthy Chicago society girl. When her wedding invitations were issued they contained this sentence: "It is a special request that no gifts shall be sent." Probably there are others who will follow her example.

Looks and Confidence.

We owe it to our friends as well as ourselves to look our best at all times and the girl who can improve her appearance without harming herself, should do so. Nothing gives us quite the self-confidence as to feel we look well.

Stomach Troubles.

Cured by Vinol—Here is Proof.

Seymour, Ind.—"I was troubled with a chronic stomach trouble, and five weeks ago it got so bad I had to give up work. I had tried various medicines without relief, and was finally induced to try Vinol. After taking the first bottle I was greatly benefited. Am now on the third bottle and ready to resume work. Am rapidly gaining in weight and strength." Edw. Newman.

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion and at the same time it builds up the tired, overworked and run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Remembered the Lesson.

My little girl, who was about three years old, had always had it impressed upon her that after she was once dressed she should not get dirty again. One afternoon after being dressed she went out to play and fell down in the dirt. She then came running to me and cried, "O, mamma, now I'm all undressed!"—Exchange.

Stronghold of Wasps.

An extraordinary nest of wasps was discovered lately on the Bedfordshire (Eng.) estate of Lord Arundell, where a man, using three wire wasp traps, has caught over 4,000 wasps. The nest consisted of six tiers, which stood six and a half inches high, and measured eight and a half inches across. The cells contained grubs and young wasps in different stages of growth.

Lightning's Freak.

A strange freak of lightning is reported from France. During a recent thunderstorm the lightning struck three hyres in a village in the department of the Loire, killing off the cows in each hyre that were lying down—16 in all—while all those standing up escaped unhurt.

Peat General Russian Fuel.

Peat constitutes about one-third of the fuel used in the central industrial districts of Russia.

Found Valuable Pearl.

A negro pearl hunter the other day found a pearl weighing 47 grains in the waters of Lake Boteneau, near Shreveport, La., said to be one of the largest gems of its kind in the United States. The finder sold it in Shreveport for $250, and the purchaser in turn received $1,500 for the stone. The second owner was a merchant, but the third a professional pearl buyer. This last values the gem at $10,000.

Doubtful.

It is possible there may be a funnier right than a ogilized man with a long nose, an undershot jaw and bushy whiskers, trying to get a full drink at a bubbling fountain, but we doubt it.

PHYSICAL WRECK RESTORED TO HEALTH BY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY.

I feel it my duty to furnish you with my testimonial as to what your remedy Swamp-root did for me when I was a physical wreck from kidney and bladder trouble.

Some years ago I was not able to do any work and could only just creep around and am satisfied that had it not been for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-root I would not have lived. After using the preparation for one month I was able to work some and when I had used $8.00 worth of Swamp-root I could do a good day's work. I used about $10.00 worth altogether and would not take $10,000 for the good that it did me. I consider it a God-send to suffering humanity for the discovery for which you recommend it and have recommended it to many sufferers.
